close up of band decoration

$$E = mc^2$$

Alfred Dunhill has created these Limited Edition Pipes to celebrate the publication of Albert Einsteins' Theory of Special Relativity in 1905, 100 years ago, and to mark the 50th anniversary of his death in 1955.

World-wide production is limited to only 150 pipes in Amber Root and 250 pipes in Shell Briar.

This Apple group 5 is a shape which Albert Einstein smoked - an example can be found in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington.

Each pipe is fitted with a Sterling Silver Hallmarked band that is decorated with his famous equation $e = mc^2$ (the equivalence of matter and energy)

The pipe is fitted in a specially commissioned leather bound book that has his image embossed in relief into the cover, together with his signature. The spine has been tooled with silver coloured foil and bears the title of this limited edition "Theory of Special Relativity".

A numbered and signed certificate of authenticity has been produced for each pipe that also contains a biography of Albert Einstein together with a brief explanation of his Theory of Special Relativity.

This Limited Edition has been produced with the official approval of the license holder in this, the ALBERT EINSTEIN™ 2005 Miracle Year Centennial.

Distributors and Retailers should please note that the following legend must appear on any advertising or communication documents that are produced for this particular product:

Limited Edition Pipes ' Christmas 2005 '

The Alfred Dunhill Limited Edition Christmas Pipe for 2005 is inspired by the work of the gifted pioneering scientist and photographer Wilson Alwyn Bentley.

It was 120 years ago, in 1885, that he became the first person to successfully photograph a snow crystal - more commonly known as a snowflake.

The theme of the 'Snowflake' has been interpreted into a design that has been stamped onto an 18ct Rose Gold band mounted on a Shell Briar pipe, shape 4325.

The pipe is packaged in a "Snow White" coloured leather bound book case with contrasting grey suede lining.

A magnified version of the "Snow Flake" has been embossed, in Rose Gold colour on the cover with detailed tooling on the spine incorporating the title "Christmas 2005".

Only 400 sets have been made for world-wide distribution. Each pipe is numbered and is supplied with a limited edition certificate.

The annual Alfred Dunhill Christmas Pipe has become one of the most sought after and collectable limited editions since its inception in 1982.

Market orders have already been placed in October 2004 - no additional orders can be accepted at this stage.

'Rarity Pipes' Whitespot Collection 196

Following the successful launch in Spring 2005 of the first pipe in the White Spot Collection, we are pleased to announce the introduction of the second - shape 196.

The White Spot Collection is a range of pipes that evoke the character and style of the earlier years.

The Collection replicates shapes that are part of Dunhill's history, since they have all been featured in the Dunhill Shape Book, an encyclopedic volume of all the designs produced.

The pipe is fitted with a Sterling Silver Band decorated with the White Spot Trade Mark and the stem stamped with the original code 196 F/T, the latter stands for the "Fishtail" mouthpiece.

Another design in this collection is planned for next Spring (2006).

Rarity Pipes 'Dragon'

Close up Ruby eye

Close up Diamond eye

Lacquered presentation case

There is no definitive date to the origins of this mythical animal, but their symbolism is deeply rooted in Chinese culture. The dragon can be described as being composed from the parts of nine animals:

The horns of a deer, the head of a camel, the eyes of the devil, the neck of a snake/serpent, the belly of a frog, the scales of a carp, the claws of an eagle, the paws of a tiger, and the ears of an ox/cow.

In ancient days the dragon was regarded as a most sacred animal and was used by Chinese emperors as an imperial symbol. Unlike the portrayal in the West where the dragon is evil, the Chinese dragon is a beneficent and gracious creature. It also serves as a symbol of good fortune as legend tells that the dragon first appeared in the sky while an heir to the throne was born and the country became blessed with peace and prosperity for many generations after.

Alfred Dunhill's dragon is wrapped around the bowl of a group 4 Shell Billiard pipe.

Two versions are available; in either 18ct gold with an inset diamond eye or in Sterling Silver with a ruby eye. The production of both is strictly limited.

The Dragon pipe is packed in a prestigious lacquered presentation box.

Unscrewing the upper part of the case exposes a brass 'dotler', which can be used for clearing the bowl of ash and tobacco remainders.

Cigar Accessories 'White Spot Humidor'

HS7508

HS7528

An additional finish has been added to the White Spot Range of humidors that were successfully introduced last year.

Commonly known as Makoré, it can also be described as African Cherry or Cherry Mahogany. Its botanical name is Mimusops Heckelii. The tree can be found growing in the mostly wet evergreen forest in West Africa, reaching a height of up to 45 meters.

It has the appearance of close grained mahogany, the heartwood ranging in colour from a cherry-like pinkish red to a darker brownish red hue. The colour chosen by Dunhill is an attractive light to medium brown, well contrasting the existing, darker Macassar finishes.

The humidors are hand-crafted in France, using matching veneers of Makoré that have a natural elegant matt finish. In contrast, the boxes are fitted with bright polished nickel plated fittings with bold Alfred Dunhill branding. A key lock with escutcheons plate is fitted to the 100 size.

The inside is lined with natural mahogany and fitted with the Dunhill exclusive humidity system, creating the perfect cigar storing environment.

Available in the two most popular sizes designed to hold either 50 or 100 cigars, they are fitted with adjustable dividers to assist with the storage of various sizes of cigars.

Positioned at the same aggressive entry-price level as the extremely successful White Spot Macassar humidors, the new White Spot Makore finishes will broaden the choice on offer and allow to address additionally those customers with a preference for lighter colours.
