PREFACE.

Nearly four centuries ago the Old World learned from the New the use of tobacco, and the lesson has been so well learned that smoking is now common everywhere.

The pipes from the pre-historic mounds of the United States, and from the ancient cities of Mexico, prove the extreme antiquity of the practice ; while its connection with religious, political, and social usages gives additional interest to all that can be known about it.

Special interest in the subject arises from the fact that all savage and semi-civilized peoples have lavished their highest skill and most characteristic art upon the construction and decoration of their pipes, and nearly the same may be said of nations higher in the scale of civilization.

The decoration of pipes and of smoking appliances generally thus adds a new chapter to the "Grammar of Ornament."

Until about twenty years ago, no attempt had been made to bring together what might be called an ethnographic collection of objects connected with the use of tobacco in its various forms—of pipes of all kinds, some being so unlike our notion of what a pipe ought to be that even the most experienced European smoker would be puzzled by them—of fire-strikers for smokers—of snuff mills and snuff rasps, by which people in earlier times made their own snuff—of snuff bottles in all their wonderful variety of style and material—of snuff boxes and many other things which illustrate the use of tobacco.

The collection that was then attempted includes all these objects, and also the whole literature of tobacco. It was begun as the recreation of a busy life to a large extent spent in travelling, thus affording special opportunities for collecting, and has been continued to the present time with increasing pleasure and success—the collection growing rapidly, while the field for exploration has opened out far more widely than had been expected.

The results of these twenty years of labour, though large, are yet necessarily incomplete; but it is hoped that they may become the nucleus of a collection as nearly perfect as is possible, and thus extend our knowledge of a curious and interesting practice which, beginning in very early ages, has become common in every country of the world.

It has not been thought well to burden this Catalogue with many notes referring to individual objects, or to the travellers who may have brought them to England. All such facts of interest will be found in the Illustrated Catalogue (No. 409) of the Bibliotheca Nicotiana.

Netsukes.

Japanese carvings, chiefly in ivory, used as buttons, or "toggles," to attach to the waistband the pipe-case and tobacco-pouch. They are very varied in subject and character; some are single figures, many are groups of figures, illustrating the mythology, history, occupations, and daily social life of the Japanese. They are frequently treated in a humorous or grotesque manner; but invariably the character and expression of the carving is admirable.

The following, from 91 to 96, are in ivory.
